BLOSSOMS THAT DO NOT MIX

Florist Tells of a Few Things He Has Learned in His Business of Handling Flowers.

The florist frowned as he took up an order for a table decoration. "That will never do," he muttered. After calling up the customer and suggesting a change, he told his new clerk a few things. "You must never take an order that calls for a mixture of mignonette and roses," he said. "A centerpiece of those two flowers wouldn't last half through the luncheon. They simply wilt one another. I don't know why, but they can't get along together. "It is true of many flowers. Pansies, spent Sunday in the city with for instance, last twice as long as if they are not combined with any other flower, and the same may be said of violets. Jonquils and daffodils, on the other hand, seem to get a new lease of life if you combine considerable Hugh Griffin and family, of St. green with them. Carnations will go all to pieces if you combine them with roses, although the roses do not seem to be affected.

"It is more striking in combinations of green with flowers. If you try to use an entirely different type of Mrs. Deshon and sons, Ross and foliage from what the flower is used put feathery foliage with lilies of the valley, for you know its natural foliage is a thick leaf. I never use thick a few weeks with her son Otho Lane leaves with carnations, for their foliage is of the feathery type. It isn't as Miss Elizabeth Long visited her though the flowers fought, but they cousin Kate Long, in Madisonville seem to grieve at being misunder-

CURTISS LOWERS SPEED RECORD

AMERICAN AEROPLANE GOES 6 1-5 MILES IN 8 MINUTES 35 2-5 SECONDS.

Under the Mistaken Impression That the Finishing Line Was Closer, Curtiss Comes Close to Earth, But Gets in Air Again.

Rheims, France, Aug. 24.-Glenn H. Curtiss, the American aviator, and M. Paulham, representing France, divided the honors of the second day of aviation wek, the former with a thrilling flight just before dusk, in which he lowered the speed record for the course, which measures 6 1-5 miles, to 8 minutes 35 2-5 seconds; the latter making two impressive high altitude flights of 49 1-2 and 56 kilometers respectively, in the endurance test for the prix de la Champagne.

Curtiss' performance began just as the time limit for the start of the prix de la Champagne was expiring, when the American enthusiasts had abandoned hope of seeing their representative take the field. Amid the unbounded jubilation of the French spectators, Bleriot only a few minutes before had clipped sixteen seconds off Lefebvre's record made with his powerful full eighty power monoplane. Suddenly, at one end of the field, a cry went up:

"The American is starting?" All eyes were strained to that particular point, where Cortlandt Field Bishop, president of the Aero club of America, and a crowd of other admirers surrounded Curtiss.

Curtiss Gets Good Start.

With a preliminary run along the ground of one hundred yards, the machine rose lightly and shot by the tribunes at a height of sixty feet. It was going at a terrific pace, with the wing level as a plane. Curtiss made the last turn under the mistaken impression that the finish line was closer. He descended so close to the earth that many thought he touched, but perceiving his error, he mounted quickly and easily, crossing the line majestically. An instant later the signal was hoisted that he had made a record.

Curtiss said that he had not pushed his machine to the limit of its speed. and laughingly declined to say more. adding that the most interesting incident of his flight was the view he got of his fallen rivals strewn around the course.

Chevrolet Stopped Buick After Seeing Brain of Knox Driver Dashed Out-125 Miles an Hour Predicted.

Indianapolis, Aug. 20.-Undaunted by the killing of Driver Bill Bourque and his companion, Holcomb, whose lives were sacrificed to the ambitions of drivers and competition of spaceeating machines, the track at the Indianapolis motor speedway presented just as lively a scene as ever Friday when the assembled daredevils appeared to tune up their cars for the

The races, as a whole, were by far the best ever seen on the American centinent, and many declare that in all the romantic race history of the famous Brooklands, England's track, there never was such a daring, swift and skilled array of pilots gathered together and pitted in the same arena on the same day. It was the opening of the big course with a ceremony of speed befitting its magnitude and im-

SHIELDS"MAN HIGHER UP'

YOUNG NOTE BROKER FAILED TO SHOW CONSPIRACY.

Attorney Jerome Accuses Persch of Being Manipulator of a "Simple Vulgar Steal.

New York, Aug. 18 .- Donald L. Persch, the young note broker, who has been indicted for grand larceny for the sale of mining stock belonging to F. Augustus Heinze, went back to the Tombs, accused by District Attorney Jerome of being the manipu lator of a "simple vulgar steal."

Although urged to reveal the "man higher up," and the intricate ramifications in high finance which Persch suggested from time to time as he intimated that he had been made a cat's paw, he failed utterly to say anything to convince Mr. Jerome that there was any conspiracy.

Persch was arraigned before Judge Mulqueen in the Court of General Sessions, charged with the larceny of $100,000 worth of stock, which he is alleged to have procured from the Windson Trust Company, where it was placed in good faith by M. M. Joyce, acting for Mr. Heinze, as collateral for a $50,000 loan.

The young man's attorney insisted that Persch had been victimized by wiser and bigger men, but his client refused to make any statement which would bear this out.

The court refused to reduce bai from $50,000, and the prisoner entered no plea, the case going over to Monall bear and

Idle Cars and Car Shortage.

Railroads are continually jumping from the frying pan into s fire. For more than two years they have frankly published Max ery week the number of idle cars throughout the country. rue leful as the figures seem the silver lining to the cloud broadeuh's i as the numbers began to diminish. Now that they are threatd tang to vanish before we get a good last look at them, people are mpginning to work themselves into a troubled state of mind over aty e fear of a car shortage. Even Chairman Knapp of the Interte Commerce Commission is predicting one for the coming near, which is only a little more than four months away.

However, the country does not mind being burnt a little by n of friction of competition for freight cars. Railway people roould no doubt like to know how it feels to have two customers phoring for the same freight car. It begins to look like easy Juidends, and they need not explain to analysts of their annual of those in attendance are from Great by tements how they manage to meet all their fixed charges withtrenching on their reserves. They can also come with better of them are acompanied by their jairt to Wall Street with their offerings of securities than at any rele within three years.

gt These new sensations are after all things that are worth while anding for. With every car groaning under its allowable proighion of freight, gross earnings will mount upward in such fashas to make the railroads feel that they can do all the double ging, build all terminals, and supply all the equipment withbagging anybody to take the doubtful end of the bargain. whole morale of the railway service from top to bottom is ing the beneficial effects of the grand shift from the idle car to the days near at hand when the roads will have all that can do .- Wall Street Journal.

Marriage Failures

Perfection Is Not the Only Essential

By HELEN OLDFIELD

F, as the old proverb so confidently assures us, "marriages are are made in heaven," the celestial combinations must be sadly shaken apart and otherwise fearfully mixed during the descent to earth. One continually meets couples the cause of whose pairing is a conundrum to all their acquaintance-sometimes to themselves. Few people marry their first loves and of those few some wish they had waited and taken sober second

Venus marries Vulcan and finds her girdle grow tarnished and dingy in the smoke of his forge; Jupiter weds Juno, every inch a queen, yet, withal, too stately for every day, and wears her, like his crown, only in public and in state. Thus the world goes, since prehistoric ages.

Not many persons marry their ideals and perhaps it is just as well that they do not, since frequently such ideals are not of the sort which make for happiness. The impossible hero who has been and probably forever will be the dream of romantic maidens doubtless outside of a novel would be a most uncomfortable person to live with.

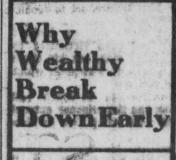

Fortunately for fallible humanity it is not perfection which so much is needed in the married state as congenial companionship, human sympathy resulting from genuine, permanent love, and these, with what somebody has called the salt of allowance and the oil of patience, largely make up the sum of happiness of married life. If the wife, according to the old formula which when it was written meant just what it says, is to "love, honor and obey," if this be her duty, equally is it that of the husband to "love, cherish and protect," and fitly to cherish demands a more subtle appreciation of the needs and wishes of the cherished one than is comprehended in even unquestioning obedience.

For happiness in marriage "they twain must be one flesh," a state which only can be understood by those who have probed the depths of matrimonial misery or risen to the heights of matrimonial bliss.

Life is for all of us in great degree what we make it; if we cannot choose the materials, we at least can fashion them to the best advantage. The Caucasian mountaineers have a saying that "Heroism is endurance for one moment longer." Yet there are extreme cases when such heroism ceases to be a virtue, when outraged nature insists upon the primary law of selfpreservation; where the strong hand of the law must be called upon to break the galling yoke of domestic tyranny, to loose the sullied bond which beyond endurance chafes.

But divorce, however necessary, in legal remedies ranks with the surgeon's knife in medicine and the woman who seeks it practically confesses herself a failure in that she has failed to satisfy the man whom, presumably of her own choice, she married.

By CARLOS MacDONALD

tary factors, the weakness and lack of con-trol seem to be emphasized particularly at this period. In many instances the fathers of such young men are subjected to great ments excesses of various kinds, and the hand which otherwise would be imparted to offspring. So many children of such parents come into the world innately unstable in their mental and nervous organizations.

Then, too, unfortunately, many of our most successful business men lose sight of the fact that their own success is due largely to the struggles Saturday night before the 4th Sun and oftentimes hardships in early life, a mental discipline, so to speak. by reason of which they were unable to indulge in the mode of living a .: 3. P v. C . Grigson, Pastor which they provide for their children.

Had these same young men had to go through the hard routine of poor boys, they probably would never develop these conditions of mental fir defect or disease. On the other hand, it may be that they could not accomplish this work.

The ancient proverb that when the fathers have eaten sour grapes the children's teeth are set on edge doubtless originated in the recognition of this important part which heredity plays in human affairs. There is 3:30 p.m. in each most . Sunday a destiny made for man by his ancestors, says Maudsley, and no one can o'clock. elude, were he alie to attempt it, the tyranny of his organization.

Business Man's Weakened Nerves

By P. EVAN JONES

A diagnosis of the American business man made by an eminent nerve specialist reveals him as suffering from "a neurosis partaking of the character of neurasthenia, psychasthenia and hysteria," the provoking causes of which are "continuous mental activity and excessive use of alcohol," This being the state of the business man's nerves, the lay observer is left to wonder at the deceptive appearance of health and heartiness with which he disguises his grave maladies from the eyes of all but the neurologist. It is amazing, says the New pay duties of 349 per cent.; canned York World with what zest and energy these nervous wrecks plunge into outdoor recreation, what arduous games of golf they play, with what enthusiasm they motor. One might suppose that their general health was better than that of any previous generation of American business men. But appearances are proverbially deceitful. Behind their outward show of physical activity the inward cancer of decay is at work consuming their vitality. What seem to be well nurtured figures are the results of alcoholic inflation. It is a serious state of things, but at least a word of admiration may be expressed the sponer success will overtake you." for the skill with which they disguise their suptoma

Brass helmets worn by English fire fighters occasionally prove useful. At a recent fire 14 tons of glass fell on one man's head and completely buried him and when he had been dug out down to his shoulders another shower of glass came down and buried him again. He was in a hospital for four months and glass was coming out of different parts of his body for six months afterward, but he is still one of the best men of his company.

Gentlemen: -

Are you a subscriber to THE BEE?

Do YOU read THE BEE and advertise in THE BEE and give it the hearty and substantial support its devotion for twenty years to your interest deserves?

Now is a good time to take a fresh start. BEE is preparing to issue a splendid illustrated Coal edition, which will contain in picture and story a record of the present status and the future possibilities of the Western Kentucky Coal Field. Special original articles written by authorities on these subjects, including Mr. C. J. Norwood, Pean of the College of Mining Engineering, State University of Kentucky, and head of the Kentucky Geological survey, and Mr. John B. Atkinson, member of the Kentucky Conservation commission and the leading Kentucky authority on the subject of forestry, giving descriptive history of the coals of this field and their present development, and bearing on the very live question of forestry as related to the coal mining industry in Kentucky, all handsomely illustrated, will be published in this Special Edition. The work of soliciting is well under way and the leading coal companies in the territory so far worked have praactically all made contracts for space, in which will be featured their individual operations.

Every coal operator in the Western Field should be represented in this important edition. Every important business related to the coal industry of Western Kentucky should be represented in its advertising columns. ery coal miner and every business man should be in position to possess a copy of this Special Coal Edition when Every paid annual subscriber to THE EARLINGTON A ssued. BEE will receive a copy of this Special Edition.

Send in your subscription Mr. Miner. And you, Mr. Operator and Mr. Business Man, hold yourself in a friendly and receptive mood to make a contract for space when our solicitor calls to see you. Your indorsement and patronage will be appreciated.

Monroe, La., Aug. 25 .- Angered, it is believed, because two of his friends had recently been shot by police in this city, William S. Wade, a negro, ran amuck on the principal business street of Monroe. With a doublebarreled gun he shot first at every white man he saw, and then at every object before him. The fire was returned, and the negro finally fell dead with a bullet through his heart, but not' before twenty-nine men, three of them negroes, had been wounded.

Three May Die. Seriously wounded: Hugh Bigger, policeman, shot in abdomen and thigh; may die.

T. H. Grant, deputy sheriff; shot in neck and breast; may die. Simon Marks, merchant, Tuskegee, Ala., shot in breast and face; may die.

George McCormack, manager of Quachita Lumber company, West Monroe; arm shattered. Among the slightly wounded are:

Dr. A. A. Forsythe, mayor of Monroe, shot in right leg; D. A. Breard, banker and president of North Louisiana Shingle company, shot in face; Edward Strong, cashier Southern Express company, shot over right eye; Joseph Thompson, chief dispatcher on Iron Mountain railroad, shot in body; Albert Marx, vice president Southern Hardware company, shot in head; J. L. Kendall, train master Iron Mountain railroad, shot in body; D. G. Trousdale, secretary and treasurer Southern Grocery company, shot in body; J. W. Merryman, agent Wells Fargo Express company, shot in hand. Body Publicly Burned.

Wades' body was publicly burned after it had been cut down from a, pole on which it had been hung for half an hour or more after he was killed.

It was at first reported that Wade was half crazed from cocaine and cheap whisky, but an investigation by the police showed that when he purchased the shotgun and box of shells a few minutes below opened fire, there was. usual in his manner.

Holmes the "Autocrat"

Poet, Novelist, Optimist and Humorist, Born a Century Ago --- Incarnation of the Spirit of Sunshine ..... By James A. Edgerton Copyright, 1909, by the American Press Association an incarnation of the spirit of sunshine. He was many thingsdoctor, lecturer, good fellow and author - but his chief vocation was that of optimist. His humor was not of sudden sur. prises, but of diffusive genial ity. He was a little chap - five feet four or thereabout-and once when in the company of many larger doc tors, all six foot ers or more, said he felt like a thres cent plece in a bunch of pennies. This LIKE A THREE CENT mot has been at-PIECE IN A BUNOR tributed to oth-OF PENNIES. er men, but mes said it first. He was lecture: anatomy at Harvard for thirty-five years and carried his warmth and glow into the class room, so much so that the "undergrads" set up a shouof delight whenever he hove in sight. In his old age he was likened to a lit tle withered red cheeked apple, but the world likewise. comparison was made in love and not in scorn. In his day Holmes was about the most universally loved man

OLMES was erature-studied law for a year, then switched to physic and in the end found himself in literature. He had followed Paul's injunction and had tried all things, or nearly all, and held fast that which was good. While he was still on earth he and his friends debated whether he had rendered the greater service to the race in an essay he had written on puerperal fever or in his novels, essays and poems, but the ages will only recall that he wrote on puerperal fever, if indeed they recall the fact at all, because he wrote the novels, essays and poems. The same Paul already dragged into this article by the heels made tents. He likewise indited various epistles. The earth have been full of tentmakers, but it has only one thirteenth chapter of Corinthians. In like manner learned folk have written on fevers for some thousands of years, but there is only one "Chambered Nautilus." This was not the only fever episode in the life of Holmes. When he first hung out his shingle his native humor got the best of him, and he said something about small favors-and feversbeing thankfully received. This queered his practice at once, as people will not have a doctor who makes fun of their diseases. If there is anything the average man or woman wants taken seriously it is his or ber ailments. The young doctor finally did get pa tients, but in a few years took to lecturing in the colleges. Then he discovered that, after all, he was a poet, when he was still happier and the

In his laugh, has always struck me as especially pat. His later poems, "Bill and Joe." 'Dorothy Q.." "The One Hoss Shay," which was ritten to ridicule a certain school of lovic, and many others have passed into the common speech of the race. To my mind "The Nautilus" is the noblest of all, especially the inimitable last two stanzas: Thanks for the heavenly message brought by thee, Child of the wandering sea, Cast from her lap forlorn.

From thy dead lips a clearer note is born Than ever Triton blew from wreathed

While on mine ear it rings Through the deep caves of thought I hear a voice that sings:

Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul, As the swift seasons roll!

Leave thy low vaulted past! Let each new temple, nobler than the Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast Till thou at length art free, Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea!

From no conceivable standpoint can serious fault be found with that poem. For classic diction, pleasing form, music, clearness, imagery, mystic touch, deep thought and noble appeal it is as well nigh perfect of its kind as our human things attain. Whatever may be said of his other work, "The Charbered Nautilus" makes Oliver Wendell Holmes a member of that

Dr. Holmes belonged to what he was fond of calling "the Brahman caste of New England." . Other people speak of it as "the Cambridge school of poets," the greatest group America has produced and one of the greatest in the history of letters. "The Autocrat" outlived all the rest. He was eightyfive at death, truly "The Last Leaf."

And if I should live to be The last leaf upon the tree In the spring Let them smile, as I do now, At the old forsaken bough Where I cling.

But they did not smile. No. Their eyes shone too much for smiles. There was a suggestion of tears in the look: also of affection and reverence, both for the gray poet and for his mighty brethren who had passed on and of whom he was the one remaining sym-

"Say this," he once charged an interviewer, "and you will say something worth coming for: We made American literature American when there was no truly American literature. I am glad that the younger writers today are so inclined to write what they themselves as Americans think and see and feel. I believe in being American."

There he sounded a note that must keep on ringing until there is an American literature greater than the world has seen till now. The Cambridge group were the praphets of some mightler school that is to be. All our accomplishments in other fields point to an equal achievement in this. A new era of invention, a new industrialism, a new polities and a new self reliance and self upbuilding are coming into birth here, and they must have an adequate voice. These poets of the nineteenth century were the singers of the dawn, heralding the fuller burst of melody. They did make an American literature and made that literature respected the world around. In this they rendered a greater service than they could have known. When the fuller chorus breaks it will fulfill and reveal the old. We shall then see how much they accomplished who laid the foundations of the temple of American letters.

Like his great associates, Dr. Holmes' home life was white. He married Amelia Lee Jackson, whose unselfishness, loyalty and tact made her an ideal wife for a man of letters. Mrs. Holmes and two children the aged poet saw laid in the grave before him. One son only survives him, and he, too, is named Oliver Wendell Holmes and is a justice of the supreme court of the United States.

In the close of the "Autocrat," when that worthy was taking his last walk with the schoolmistress, occurs this touching scene:

"I think I tried to speak twice without making myself distinctly audible.

At last I got out the question, 'Will you take the long path The I said. 'No. no.' she answered

Recently at a dinner party the comversation turned upon the subject of clubs. The special features of the Athenaeum were referred to with, great respect, and then J. M. Barrie, who was the only member of that august club who happened to be present, intervened.

"After having been elected by the Athenaeum club," he said, "I went there for the first time and looked about for the smoking room. An old man with long, white hair was wandering in a lonely way about the hall. I asked him if he would be so kind as to tell me the way to the smoking room. He agreed with alacrity. When we returned to the hall I thanked him heartily, when he begged me to do him the honor of dining with him. 'But, my dear sir,' I said, 'you have been far too kind to me already. I cannot think of imposing myself upon you in this fashion.'

"'Imposing yourself!' exciamed the old man in an eager voice. 'On the contrary, you will be doing me the greatest favor in the world; the fact is, I have belonged to this club for thirty years and you are the first member who has ever spoken to me!"-Bellman.

ENTRIES AND EXHIBITS.

Exhibition and Classification of the The Organization of the Kentucky Kentucky State Fair.

Entries and exhibits of all livestock departments except for horses, mules and jack stock will close Monday, Sept. 6th, at 6:00 p. m., and all other departments prior to Priday, Sept. 10. Entries of horses, mules and jack stock will close positively at 12 o'clock noon the day before the exhibition. There will be a printed program of the entries of horses, jack stock and cattle, together with the name of the wwner, name and color of the animal and number of the entry, which must correspond with the number worn by the person in charge of the animal. It is absolutely essential that this information accompany the entry, which must be filed with the secretary before the closing date. Exhibits must be sinced by 9 o'clock Monday morning, ept. 13th, and all exhibitors will be notified. There are 1,400 different Mags in which prizes are offered, and there is a total of over 300 lots.

The horse classification is subdividinto classes suitable for light haress, five-gaited saddle-horses, roadbers, combined harness and five-gaited horses, American carriage horses, hree-gaited saddle-horses, combination erses, plantation saddle-horses, high pping and runabout classes, Shetnd ponies and fine horses.

Good premiums are given for both things to be noted at a state fair.

In the beef cattle department, Shortens, Herefords, Polled Durhams, perdeen Angus and Red Polls are iven most liberal classifications. In e Dairy Cattle Department, Jerseys, olstein-Friesians, Guernseys and Ayrshires are recognized. The swine Separtment includes Berkshires, Poand Chinas, Duroc Jerseys, Chester Whites, Tamworths, Hampshires and Yorkshires. In the sheep department rises are offered for the following Shropshires, Southdowns, Oxfords, Hampshires, Cotswolds, Dorsots, American Merinos, Delaine Meinos: Rambouillets, Lincolns, Cheviots and also a class for Angora goats.

The poultry department covers evmry known standard variety. The same is true of the pigeon department, the prize money for these departments cing much larger than last year. The department for vegetables and melone. ingly. seed and grain and tobacco conains classes for almost every product grown on the farm. In horticulture here are over 700 prizes offered for pples, peaches, pears, grapes and miscellaneous fruits. Plants and flowers, one of the most beautiful and attractive exhibits of the State Fair, will be well taken care of this year and will placed alongside of the women's separtment. In no department is there a more interesting collection of premiums than in that set aside for man's work, children's work and table luxuries.

Students' Judging Contest.

Commissioner M. C. Rankin has offored two sets of prizes for farmer heys in this state and for the students an the Agricultural College. The amount for farmer boys is $100, to be awarded to the young man who makes the largest score in judging livestock at the State Fair. This money to be used as scholarship to the Agricultural Department of the State University, the contestant to be required to file written opinion, with reasons therefor, on horses, cattle, swine and sheep entholits. The prize for students' judging contest amounts to $50, to be divided into $20, $15, $10 and $5. Competition will be limited to students in the State University. It is the purpose of the commissioner in offering these specials to educate the young men of the state in livestock judging. The requirements are quite liberal, and there is no reason why any bright young man in the state should not enter the contest.

AN ENERGETIC FORCE.

State Fair Work. Few realize the amount of labor and the amount of organization that it takes to put on a State Fair. On September 13th at Louisville will be opened the seventh annual Kentucky State Fair. Visitors will find on exhibition the best specimens of practically every product of the state. To collect these exhibits and to systemize them so as to have everything ready for inspection and to operate the same for six days, costs about $50,000. First comes the secretary, who is charged with the responsibility of getting everything in readiness together with a large clerical force, then the heads of each department, which is always some member of the State Board of Agriculture, with superintendents and assistants sufficient to look after each exhibit; a force of watchmen, guards, ticket sellers and takers, laborers, etc., until if the whole force were gathered together it would represent a goodsized army. Each person is adapted to handle his particular work, and no more system is required in any great industrial plant than in an exhibition of such magnitude. It was through this thoroughly organized force that all the details of last year's fair was worked out in such an incredibly short time. And the energy displayed by such a force is one of the interesting

A FINE OUTING.

Arrangements have been made for those who want to take a week's outing to have their own tent upon the State Fair grounds. Persons desiring a tent should write to Secretary Newman of Louisville. Ky., and notify him. and tents can be secured and furnished to visitors at actual cost. Many persons have an idea that they can take in the entire Fair in one day when in fact six days can be very profitably spent in studying the various exhibits that will be upon the grounds. Many for the first time visiting the State Fair for one day, leave with the determination to come again the next year and spend several days and make their arrangements accord-

Equity and Grange Headquarters at the Kentucky State Fair.

The Kentucky State Fair manage. ment for the week of Sept. 13-18 has provided a tent to be known as Equity Headquarters, and also one to be known as Grange Headquarters, for the use of members of these organizations, free of cost. It is to be hoped the farmers will make use of the accommodations provided for them and feel perfectly at home during the fair Pain's Fireworks at the State Faw. The State Fair will again have Pain's Fireworks as a night attraction. Novelties in fireworks not heretofore seen will be introduced and a magnifi-cent display of forty numbers will be given each night, including such devices as "The Weird White Falls" on known as "Fighting the Flames," showing a house burning, with the fire engine playing water upon the flames, all done in fireworks. Monster portraits of well-known people. The Pain company will also put on a wonderful new device known as "The Pillar of Light," showing a pillar of fire of intense brilliancy rising fifty feet in the as bright as day.

In connection with the fireworks there will be provided entertainment by noted specialty artists, and a big concert eac' night by the band, making a most charming evening and one

Tobacco at the State Fair.

A most liberal premium list is offered for tobacco and a large and valuable exhibit is expected. Classes are provided for the following Burley types: Red Leaf, Bright Leaf, Cigarette Wrapper and Bright Trash. The dark types are Black Wrapper, Long or African Leaf, French Leaf, Italian Leaf, Green River Leaf and Stemming Leaf. In addition to e regular prizes, Hon. M. C. Ranl offers $75 in specials for the best d: lay of Burley crop, best display of Dark Tobacco and the best display of Green River Tobacco. Not more than four samples can be entered of a single crop, but it, exhibitor has more than one crop raised on his farm he is entitled to four samples out of each crop.

Horse Show at the State Fair. At every fair, whether big or little, in Kentucky, the horse show is one of the predominant features, and the Kentucky State Fair of 1909 will be no exception. With one of the most attractive classifications ever offered at a Southern fair, with high class judges to tie the ribbons and the best covered show arena in the world, there should be horses enough and of choice quality at this show. As the horse exhibit can usually be depended upon to take care of itself, it is believed that with the addition of the night show feature an unusual array of equine celebrities will be paracled before the Embarrassed Mules.

One of the humorous passages in Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court," relates how a party of travelers, composed of ladies and gentlemen, were telling funny atories and how the Yankee was able to trace the progress of the joke down the cavalcade by the way the mules blushed. The idea of a mule blushing atanything, even the Salome dance, in these times is of course preposterous. The embarrassment of those early mules was a fitting rebuke to the ladies aboard the mules, for we are led to infer that the ladies didn't blush:

Three Hundred and Fifty Different Specimens in Existence, According to Botanists.

anna Germany adopted the corn flower as a national institution many years ago, the adoption coming about merely by way of a popular choice. It is a common flower all over Europe, but rather more prolific in Germany than in any other of the countries graced by it.

Botanists' tell us that there are no less than 350 varieties of the corn flower to be found, but the plant that is found in profusion in the realms of the kaiser is said to be the most beautiful of all. The Germans admire it for the richness of its wreath-like circle of outer florets and the splendors of its deep azure tints as it opens to the sun.

At one time German scientists attributed certain medicinal properties to the corn flower, and its blue bloshoms were used also to some extent in domestic dyeing, but latterly these properties are not so much credited

Although Germany lays claim to the finest of the species, America may boast also of some beautiful specimens of the corn flower. It is said to have been brought to this country first in the ballast of ships in the days antedating the modern ocean flyer, which carries only water ballast. In this country it is variously known as the Bachelor's Button, Corn Bottle, Witches' Belles or Thimbles, Blue Bonnet, and Blue Poppy.

MUSICIAN A MASTER OF WIT.

Biography of Edward MacDowell Relates Some Examples of the Master's Caustic Humor.

In a biography of Edward MacDowell by Lawrence Gilman, the writer quotes some of the famous musician's witticisms. On one occasion he had been told of a performance of his composition, "To a Wild Rose," played by a high-school girl on a high-school piano at a high-school graduation festivity. "Well," MacDowell remarked, 'I suppose she pulled it up by the

Some one sent him about this time, relates Mr. Humiston, a program of an organ recital at which this same 'Wild Rose" was to be played.

"He was not pleased with the idea, thinking doubtless of a style of performance which plays Schumann's Traumerei' on the great organ diapasons. He remarked simply that it reminded him of a hippopotamus wearing a clover leaf in his mouth."

A member of one of his classes at Columbia, finding more unoccupied space on the page of his book, after finishing the exercise, filled up the vacancy with rests. When his book was returned the page was covered with corrections—all except these bars of rests, which were inclosed in a red line and marked:

"This is the only correct passage in the exercise."-Youth's Companion.

An Honest Boy Rewarded. Honesty is appreciated—even among politicians. During a recent political convention in North Carolina a newsboy named Cicero Alexander sold a paper to a delegate who gave him a dollar and was to wait for his change. The boy on returning, could not find his customer and began to cry. The chairman of the convention, impressed by his honesty, announced the matter before the whole assemblage-the result being not only that the man who had the change coming to him let the boy have it, but a collection of $19.35 was taken up for hir by the delegates. Some one shouted that the youngster should be made state treasurer, and by unanimous vote the convention recommended him for chief page in the legislature.—Exchange.

Bought by King George in 1771. The old house standing on the corner of Batavia and Roosevelt streets, New York, one of the few buildings left intact as a relic of colonial times is about to be torn down to make way for an apartment house. The house, a bit altered, has been standing since the middle of the eighteenth century. It is one of the landmarks of the Fourth ward. In the year 1771 King George III. bought the house and property for the sum of £75. The deed of sale, with the signature of the king attached, is now in the possession of the present owner, Thomas Farrell, of 72 West One Hundred and Thirtyseventh street. An option on the property has been given for about $100,000. -Exchange.

Hunting Grounds for Naturalists. Those who are curious about birds may spend time to great profit in looking at the poulterers' shops when game is in season. There they will find many rare and even valuable specimens that apparently have been thrown into the hamper by the man who shot them on the chance of his receiving something from the London dealer. A very good museum of stuffed birds might be got by simply purchasing those that through ill luck have found their way into Leadenhall Market .- Country Life.

Well Named.

"What's that you call your mule?" "I call him 'Corporation,' " answered the old colored man.

"How did you come to give him such a name?"

Before the Engine

An engine does not run today because there was a fire, and steam, in it yesterday, Nor does it run because it's a good engine---the best in the railroad yards; nor because people are in the habit of seeing it run, and know that it CAN run.

The fireman has to build a fire in it TODAY if it is to be useful today.

A store is not a busy store unless it is advertised today. It's not busy because it is "well known;" nor because it is a good store, and well located. It "goes" because of the publicity steam that is gotten up TODAY.
